10,000 Shriners invade city

The Shriners are coming to town.

The name may conjure an image of fez-wearing, tiny-car-driving, clown-parading men, but the boost to tourism revenue is no joke: The 136th annual convention of the fraternal organization, which begins Sunday, means a $4-million injection into a downtown that suffered a strong blow to its economy and morale during the G20 summit.

Beyond the silly stunts and gimmicks, this not-so-secret society, which boasts 350,000 members worldwide (including 12 temples and 22,000 members in Canada) has a long history of supporting pediatric health care under the slogan: "Shriners, having fun and helping kids."

For 71-year-old Barry McQuillin, director general of the Shrine Imperial Session in Toronto, the convention will be a chance to boost the spirits of Toronto and raise the profile of the Shriners' generous side.

"The parade and the fun that we'll have, the thousands of people on the streets, it is always a thrill," he says.

"But we are not doing it to particularly amuse ourselves, we're doing it for the citizens of the Toronto."

Protests denounce G20 security tactics

Hundreds of protesters blocked from reaching Police HQ Protests also organized in Montreal

Anti-capitalist groups, unions and community and women's organizations are rallying to support those still being filtered through the justice system following mass arrests during the G20 summit in Toronto last weekend.

Several hundred people took to the streets of downtown Toronto on Thursday evening to show their displeasure with police tactics.

Local media outlets reported the demonstrators called for the resignation of police chief Bill Blair. The demonstrators tried to march from the Ontario legislature to police headquarters, but officers prevented them from getting too close to their headquarters. Reports indicated the Toronto event was largely peaceful.

In Montreal, about 1,000 protesters marched peacefully through downtown on Thursday to condemn the way police handled security at the summit.

Many carried cans around their necks to collect money for the legal representation of those still in police custody in Toronto.

Unionist Francis Lagace, one of the few marchers sporting a suit and tie, had been in Toronto for the summit.

"Those people were arrested without knowing why, they were detained in horrendous conditions," he said.

"This is a clear violation of human rights in Canada."

Orangutan euthanized at zoo

The Toronto Zoo has announced the death of Molek, its eldest male orangutan, who was euthanized Monday after suffering from kidney disease.

The 32-year-old Sumatran orangutan died after blood tests revealed his kidneys had stopped working, said zoo veterinarian Chris Dutton.

For staff members at the zoo, Molek's passing has been like "losing a member of the family."

Cops seek tips on man's death

INVESTIGATION Police are asking anyone with information connected to the death of a man in a Toronto park to come forward.

Police say they received a call around 5:53 a.m. on Thursday of an unconscious man in St. James Park near Jarvis Street and Adelaide Street West.

Neighbours say around 4 a.m. they heard a group of males in the area behaving boisterously.

WSIB program cost $150M yearly, but had success rate under 50% New program set to debut this year

A wasteful $150-million worker retraining program has been scrapped and replaced by a streamlined system provincial officials say will protect vulnerable workers and save money.

A Toronto Star investigation last year showed the Labour Market Re-Entry program failed to lead nearly half of its participants to jobs. The Star found injured workers were being sent to for-profit schools charging high tuitions so they could prepare for menial jobs as cashiers and attendants.

▶ Allan Melcosky wishes he'd bought his bus ticket to Winnipeg a day earlier, before the HST kicked in.

Impact of HST hitting home for shoppers

Some express buyer's remorse, others unaware of tax hike on Canada Day ◗ Ontario levy now at 13%

Canada Day shoppers were feeling the extra pinch Thursday as the harmonized sales tax officially went into effect, causing a slew of items like rail tickets, pedicures, cigarettes, dry cleaning and gasoline to rise in price.

The overnight change caused a bit of buyer's remorse in shoppers who were running errands and shopping this holiday, some of whom didn't realize the HST would start on Canada Day.

The HST is a blend of the five per cent federal goods and services tax with the eight per cent provincial sales tax, causing items that were previously only subject to the GST to now face a levy of 13 per cent.

1 out of 6

The ratio of goods and services that have increased levies because of the HST.

"I think theoretically if I realized last night, I would have (bought my ticket yesterday)," said Allan Melcosky while waiting for his bus to Winnipeg at the downtown Greyhound bus station.

"But you're not going to get away from it. What, you're going to fill up your tank for a week? It's here, there's nothing now you can do about it," he added.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Disgruntled residents trying to adapt to tax

Customers at the Classic Nail and Spa on Dundas Street East knew about the coming HST, but were not deterred from treating themselves to a Canada Day manicure.

"I'm not happy about it," said Rosemary Montagnese on having to pay about $1.20 more on her manicure. "A lot of people do not understand this, they really don't. They may know about it, but they still don't understand the way it works. You're going to think twice about doing stuff."

For taxi driver Adnan Bakth, the new HST was already scaring off business, with the base rate for taxi rides rising from $4.00 to $4.25.

"The customer hopped in, and at the next lights, he just got off. He was frustrated at the price," recounted Bakth.

JASMEET SIDHU/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Rosemary Montagnese gets a manicure.

"People cannot afford that kind of price. We have a big chance of losing more business."

Perhaps the Torontonians bitterest about the newly installed HST Thursday were those filling up their tanks a day after the price of gas went up by about eight cents in many downtown pumps.

Board chair won't seek re-election

Bruce Davis — the veteran Toronto trustee who was finally elected chair last December after four unsuccessful tries — will not run for re-election, the Toronto Star has learned.

Davis will make it official Friday by withdrawing his name to run in Etobicoke-Lakeshore, which he's represented for the past decade.

Recently, he took on the job of campaign manager for mayoral candidate George Smitherman and rumours abound that Davis would head to city hall should Smitherman win.

Video of shopper's fit a hit

Among the passions inflamed by the weekend's G20 summit in Toronto, one example is capturing imaginations around the world.

A video of an outraged shopper, stymied by the early closure of the downtown Eaton Centre, has gone viral.

The video shows the man repeatedly demanding to know why the doors to the mall are closed.

"Tell us why," he yells. "We want to shop."

The video has been viewed hundreds of thousands of times.

Canada Day in Kandahar

Canadian soldiers and civilians in Afghanistan marked Canada Day with beer, barbecue — and a rocket attack.

An afternoon of red and white Maple Leafs combined with beige combat fatigues had all the earmarks of a Canada Day at home.

Hundreds of Canadian flags were strung up at Canada House, the recreational centre for Canada's soldiers serving in Afghanistan. Even Canadian vehicles were sporting shiny new flags attached to windows and mirrors.

In addition to barbecued hotdogs and hamburgers the celebrants were given a rare ration of two beer apiece. Troops and civilians donned Team Canada hockey jerseys, giant Maple Leaf hats and painted their faces to show their Canadian pride.

"It's definitely more poignant here. We're proud to be Canadian and represent our country here," said Master Cpl. Cindy Brooks.

"Everybody is looking at us going who are those crazy Canadians? It's awesome today."

Meantime, Cpl. Robin Blackburn said after being in Kandahar for months, she is missing the colour green — as in grass. But getting together with fellow Canadians is special, she said.

Canadian Idol winner Theo Tams, originally from Lethbridge, Alta., was the main entertainment for the evening concert.

But after taking the stage and beginning his set of songs, his performance was delayed for 10 minutes by a rocket attack — a regular occurrence at the sprawling Kandahar Airfield.

There were no reports of casualties.

Queen gets a slice of Canadiana

On hand for Ottawa Canada Day celebrations

The sun was shining and thousands of people were waving flags and cheering as they welcomed the Queen and Prince Philip to Parliament Hill to celebrate Canada Day.

The royal couple arrived in a horse-drawn landau, complete with a mounted RCMP escort. The Queen was wearing a red suit with a maple leaf brooch, and a white hat with a big red flower.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper was on hand to welcome them.

The 84-year-old monarch has not been on Parliament Hill for Canada Day since 1997.

She was serenaded by Canadian artists, including Quebec pop star Isabelle Boulay, bagpipers The Campbell Brothers, The Barenaked Ladies and the Montreal Jubilation Gospel Choir.

New Canadians become citizens

About 70 new Canadians gathered in downtown Vancouver Thursday morning to take the country's Oath of Allegiance.

The new Canadian citizens come from almost 40 countries across the globe and were honoured by B.C. Lt.-Gov. Steven Point. Point told those in attendance they've certainly chosen well by making Canada their new home.

He urged the new Canadians to explore the country, while embracing both languages of English and French.

Canadian G8 initiative still in development

Canada has promised $1.1B in new cash over five years for maternal and child health

Canada's G8 initiative to save mothers and children in poor countries is still in labour.

The $5-billion announcement at last weekend's summit left many loose ends that need to be tied up before the countries can begin to make good on their commitment to save the lives of 1.3 million children under age five, and 64,000 mothers.

The money is supposed to be new, co-ordinated and targeted at the most egregious problems of women and children in poor countries.

The funding is also supposed to be "catalytic," leading to a total of more than $10 billion.

But so far, there are few indications about how those goals will be accomplished — despite widespread expectations that Ottawa would have a detailed plan to present at the summit in Huntsville, Ont.

For many aid experts and non-governmental organizations looking to work with Ottawa on the initiative, the G8 announcement was welcome — but also deeply underfunded and lacking in detail.

Proof 'thin': Lawyer for alleged spy

Massachusetts man took Canadian boy's identity, agents claim ● Couple's trial held over until July 17

The lawyer for one of the suspects charged with operating as Russian spies entrenched in American suburbia told a judge Thursday that the evidence revealed so far against his client is "extremely thin."

Nine defendants in the case were making long-shot bids to be released from jail pending trial, even as authorities scoured a Mediterranean island for an alleged co-conspirator who disappeared after he was granted bail.

Donald Heathfield and his wife, Tracey Lee Ann Foley, of Cambridge, Mass., appeared in federal court in Boston Thursday for a bail hearing.

A judge granted a delay until July 16 to give their new lawyers time to prepare.

As they entered the court in handcuffs and leg shackles, the couple smiled at their sons, a teenager and a college student. The boys waved to their parents.

Heathfield claimed to be a Canadian, but was using a birth certificate of a deceased Canadian boy, agents said in a court filing.

Hearings also were set for courts in New York and Alexandria, Va., Thursday for all but one of the 10 people arrested over the weekend.

- A suspect has confessed to U.S. agents that he worked for Russia's intelligence service, federal prosecutors said Thursday. Authorities said Juan Lazaro admitted that "Juan Lazaro" was not his real name, that he was not in fact from Uruguay, and that his wife, Peruvian journalist Vicky Pelaez, had passed letters to the "Service" on his behalf.
- Mikhail Semenko, Michael Zottoli and Patricia Mills, all of Arlington, Va., were set for a hearing in Alexandria.
- Defendants Lazaro and Pelaez, as well as Richard Murphy and Cynthia Murphy, were to go before a judge in New York.
- Clare Lopez, senior fellow at the Center for Security Policy and a former operations officer for the CIA, said the alleged plotters might have someday been able to produce valuable information, if left in place long enough.

▶ Christopher Robert Metsos

Hunt is on for alleged paymaster

Red-faced authorities in Cyprus searched Thursday for a suspected Russian spy-ring paymaster who vanished after being freed on bail.

Police fear he may have slipped into the breakaway north of the island, a diplomatic no man's land recognized only by Turkey.

Justice Minister Loucas Louca admitted that a judge's decision to release Christopher Robert Metsos "may have been mistaken."

Metsos, 54, is wanted in the U.S. on charges that he supplied money to the spy ring that operated under deep cover in America's suburbs.

Losing a race for life

Pacific's last glacier once had decades to live, now experts give it just years Blame global warming

Lonnie Thompson fears global warming is gaining on us — fast

Thompson spent years preparing for his expedition to the remote, mist-shrouded mountains of eastern Indonesia, hoping to chronicle the effect of global warming on the last remaining glacier in the Pacific.

Now he's worried he got there too late.

Even as he pitched his tent on top of Puncak Jaya, the ice was melting beneath him.

The 4,884-metre-high glacier was pounded by rain every afternoon during the 13-day trip of Thompson's team — something the American scientist has never encountered in three decades of drilling ice cores.

He lay awake at night listening to the water gushing beneath him.

By the time the team was ready to head back home, ice around its sheltered campsite had melted a staggering 30 centimetres.

"These glaciers are dying," said Thompson, one of the world's most accomplished glaciologists.

"Before I was thinking they had a few decades, but now I'd say we're looking at years."

Thompson has led 57 such expeditions in 16 countries around the planet, from China to Peru.

But for him, the Papuan glaciers, because they lie along the fringe of the world's warmest ocean and could provide clues about regional weather patterns, are an unexplored "missing link."

Church set to close, so members stage sit-in

Carrying U.S. and Hungarian flags, parishioners ended a 16-hour sit-in at a Roman Catholic church that is closing.

Police told them they would be trespassing if they did not leave.

The protesters started a vigil at midnight Wednesday at the 106-year-old St. Emeric Church near downtown Cleveland.

The historic Hungarian church is the last of 50 parishes to be closed by the local diocese.

Parishioners had declared they were well-stocked with food and ready to stay "for a long time" to save their church.

Bishop Richard Lennon has agreed to meet with protesters, police and protesters said.

- Newly-obtained documents reveal plan for Canadian space menu
- Only 'Canasnack' cookies made it

How long does it take to whip up a batch of oatmeal cookies? An hour, tops?

But it took the Canadian Space Agency (CSA) several months to develop Canasnacks — cream-filled sandwich cookies for astronauts.

In December 2006, the CSA called on Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada to create a one-day menu for astronauts onboard the International Space Station.

It wasn't easy. It had to be NASA-approved, tasty and, importantly, be made from Canadian ingredients.

But in 2007, now-retired Canadian astronaut Dave Williams was the first to take the Canasnacks into space. THE CANADIAN PRESS

SUBPRIME CRISIS LOOMS IN CANADA

Other people's money

DAVID DESCÔTEAUX

We're all Americans now.

Marc is in charge of mortgages at a large bank. He's getting nervous. "Many cases are scaring me. One customer owes $60,000 in credit card debt, and he wants to refinance his mortgage to repay it!" Another uses his house as an ATM. "He's refinanced his mortgage eight times. To buy a ski-doo, a truck, a boat … The day his house's value starts falling, this guy will lose everything."

Is this scene taking place in the U.S.? No. In Montreal. Forget about Canada Day. Partly thanks to our politicians, we've all become Americans — version 2007, a few months before their economy collapsed.

Remember what caused the financial crisis: The central bank (the Fed) slashed interest rates, holding them too low, too long. What do you do when interest rates are low? You borrow to buy a house. You take out a line of credit and buy a car. Save? When a deposit certificate earns 1.5 per cent? No thanks. With help from "creative" bankers, this fuelled the biggest housing and debt bubble the world has ever seen. Then the bubble popped, leaving millions unemployed.

What are politicians doing here? Same thing. The Bank of Canada has kept interest rates at rock bottom levels for almost three years now.

Remember Fannie Mae and Freddy Mac? Those loan companies have so far cost U.S. taxpayers $250 billion. Here we have the CMHC. The Crown corporation insures about 60 per cent of banks' mortgage loans — generally the riskiest ones. Last year, the government allowed CMHC to insure up to $600 billion in mortgages, up from $450 billion the year before. Since CMHC is backed by taxpayer money, banks can lend to people who can't afford it without bearing the risk. You think they had any scruples about doing so?

"We have created a legion of subprime borrowers, one broken refrigerator away from default. If interest rates rise, the U.S. economy relapses, or home prices fall … our house of cards collapses. "

As a result, people are spending like there's no tomorrow. The median house price in Vancouver now exceeds $700,000. In Toronto, an average bungalow will set you back $400,000. Meanwhile, Canadians are drowning in debt. A recent survey showed that one in four of us would be unable to cope with an unexpected expense of $5,000, even if allowed to use credit cards!

We have created a legion of subprime borrowers, one broken refrigerator away from default. If interest rates rise, the U.S. economy relapses, or home prices fall … our house of cards collapses.

Politicians should understand that building a healthy economy requires saving, not mountains of debt. In the meantime, we've become Americans, circa 2007. No wonder Canada fared well during the crisis: It hasn't hit home yet.

5 MINUTES WITH: CAITLIN CRONENBERG

She's the daughter of one of Canada's top filmmakers, so it's no surprise photographer Caitlin Cronenberg eventually found her niche behind a camera.

So photographer, huh. You couldn't just rebel and become a dairy farmer or something?
I was planning on rebelling my entire life when I thought I was going to be Skimbleshanks the Railway Cat … Until I got a sewing machine, and then thought I would be some sort of seamstress. And then I got a camera and it all started to make sense. So I tried to rebel, but it just didn't really take.

What's your favourite subject?
Anything that has a person in it. I like taking pictures of cake as well, because I can get emotion out of a cake — especially if I made the cake myself. We have a bond. A cake bond.

How do you get emotion out of a cake?!
How do you not get emotion out a cake (laughs)! It's just the most emotionally deep and rich subject. It's got icing, and you can add some fruit, some ganache ... It's a sensual subject.

Let's talk about your book. Why a collection of naked folks?
Basically, because I'd never done it before. (When I started) I experienced this intense connection with the person I was shooting and it just became really interesting to me. Each photo was telling an individual story.

Most women have panic attacks at the mere idea of trying on a bikini. How did you get so many to pose in the buff?
In a way it's different than trying on a bikini. It's a more comfortable experience because you know that you're in a safe place and in good hands. I feel like they knew they could be comfortable and I wasn't going to judge or ridicule them in any way.

Any tips for taking Cronenberg-style photos?
Always make your own blood from scratch. Don't use store-bought blood. Corn syrup and a little instant coffee, red food colouring and a touch of blue. And, you know, stir well. Plus it's edible.

Hey, you can even put it on the cake.
Well, you don't want to eat too much of it because it's very sweet. And the coffee doesn't taste too great either.

TORONTO. I didn't know it was possible to feel even more blessed and thankful to be Canadian. But then a month ago, my family and friends were attacked and killed back home in Lahore, Pakistan, solely for their religious beliefs. Each time my heart ached for the persecution, violence and hatred they regularly faced, I couldn't help but feel so blessed and thankful to call this great country my home and native land.

Canada allows me to live my hyphenated identity; I can openly tell people I am an Ahmadi Muslim and be a proud, hockey-loving Canadian at the same time.

Metro Minute at Sleuth of Baker St.

Not into Canada Day, but still sticking around town? Take the opportunity to grab a few paperback thrillers and indulge in some summer reading.

The Sleuth of Baker Street is an uptown treasure trove of mystery novels and unconventional titles. Best of all, you can get some great recommendations from Sir Percival, the store's official "dog in residence." But don't forget to call ahead and make an appointment — Percy is one in-demand poodle, so it's best to make sure he will actually be there to avoid disappointment (especially with little ones in tow).

Shyamalan tries something new by turning animated TV series into a film

WEEKEND

PHIL BROWN
FOR METRO CANADA

At least M. Night Shyamalan finally tried something new.

The Sixth Sense director — dedicated to twist endings and subtle chills — has ventured out of his comfort zone for The Last Airbender, based the popular anime-influenced Nickelodeon series Avatar.

He's going for Star Wars-style childish thrills, but unfortunately his movie is weighed down by measured pacing and unrelenting seriousness.

These qualities worked well in his early thrillers, but suck the life out of this cartoon adventure.

It's like watching Al Gore struggling through a comedy routine, but without the unintentional laughs.

The film is set in a world divided into four factions based on their ability to control, or "bend," one of the four elements (air, earth, fire, and water).

A unifying figure known as The Avatar used to exist who could control all of the elements and united the world in peace.

Unfortunately he's been missing for years and the fire tribe now controls the world with a flaming fist.

That is until a young water bender and her brother discover a small child frozen in the ice who just might be the long lost avatar.

The Last Airbender
Director: M. Night Shyamalan
Stars: Noah Ringer, Nicola Peltz, Dev Patel
Rating:

It's a complicated and intriguing mythology, but sadly the film tries to cram 20 television episodes worth of material into 100 minutes.

As a result, every non-action scene is dedicated to exposition with no time for characterization, homour, or a satisfying story structure.

Shyamalan is a talented director and has the money and resources to craft some impressive sequences, but is simply the wrong choice for this material.

Shyamalan has always been an overrated writer, and he has managed to turn a fast-paced animated series into an epic on-screen bore.

Adrien Brody speaks about his 'adrenalized' self
Alone in a jungle, with no carnal pleasures, the star pulled off his tough-guy character in Predators

Brody gets ripped for Predators

NED EHRBAR
METRO WORLD NEWS

Adrien Brody admits that he wasn't the most pleasant person to be around while making Predators, the latest in the major science-fiction franchise.

"I was living a very kind of austere life when I was making this film," he explains. "I had no sugar, no alcohol. I was not having sex, I was in the jungle alone for the most part when we were in Hawaii. And that will make you ferocious. I was training six days a week and lifting very heavy weights, which increases your body's testosterone output."

All that preparation was necessary to transform the normally slender Oscar-winner into Royce, an intimidating mercenary and survivalist dropped onto an alien planet to be hunted for sport by the series' namesake creatures. All the bulking up, as well as the conditions of the set, helped get Brody into the right mindset.

"There's a certain degree of emotional transformation that happens when you physically alter yourself. You find yourself very adrenalized," he says. "You are running through a wall of fire and you are wielding an axe-like hammer, and you are interacting with seven-foot-tall monsters. And they hurt when you hit them. I still have scars."

Since winning an Oscar in 2003 for The Pianist, Brody has cut an eclectic path as an actor, going from blockbusters like King Kong to indie fare like The Brothers Bloom.

"I'm always open to new challenges. That's part of what inspires me."

Predator history

- First introduced nearly 25 years ago as the fearsome foe hunting Arnold Schwarzenegger, the Predator aliens have become a fixture of pop culture, spawning novels, comic books, video games and several movies.
- The movies including 1990's Predator 2, 2004's Alien vs. Predator and 2007's Alien vs. Predator: Requiem.
- But in making the new Predators, producer Robert Rodriguez wasn't concerned with the recent turns the Predator franchise had taken. "The bar was so low at that point," he tells Metro. Rodriguez focused instead on the 1987 original. "I didn't even see those two, actually," he admits of the crossover films. "I just pretend I ... was making a sequel to the first one."

Esther Blueburger, thy name is bildungsroman

- Hey, Hey It's Esther Blueburger
  Director: Cathy Randall
  Stars: Danielle Catanzarti, Kiesha Castle-Hughes, Toni Collette
  Rating: ●●●

Hey, Hey It's Esther Blueburger has probably one of the worst titles ever conceived. Fortunately, the movie isn't quite as bad. The debut feature by Cathy Randall is one of those tragicomic semi-autobiographical coming of age stories popular with debut directors. It's about a young girl, and social reject, who reinvents herself as one of the bad girls. It's hardly a classic, but good enough to see director Cathy Randall behind the camera again.

Tehroun
Director: Nader T. Homayoun
●●●
Iranian cinema is primarily dedicated to realistic dramas dripping with humanity. Much of Tehroun fits into that tradition while also becoming possibly the country's first crime thriller. Human trafficking, murder, drugs, and prostitution all play a role in the film, which is unheard of for a country that strictly monitors its cultural output. Director Nader T. Homayoun accomplished quite a feat in getting this movie made and while it's a little too generic, there's never been a film quite like it before.

Fuel
Director: Joshua Tickell
●●
Like so many politically-inflected, post-Michael Moore documentaries, Josh Tickell's 2008 Sundance prize winner Fuel attempts to topple accepted truths while still kowtowing to the cult of personality: Namely, the director's own. Certainly, Tickell's thesis — that North Americans are fatally dependent on foreign oil reserves — is sound, but Fuel has too many instances of rhetorical slippage to be taken entirely seriously.
● PHIL BROWN

Pax Americana and the Weaponization of Space
Director: Denis Delestrac
A standard advocacy doc with an undeniably intriguing and uncomfortable subject, Pax Americana attempts to lift the veil on the United States' military incursions into outer space — including the famous Star Wars initiative of the 1980s. Director Denis Delestrac has been described as the Michael Moore of France, and the comparison fits given his unapologetically polemical nature of his filmmaking. ● ADAM NAYMAN

Is there a new Spider-man?

SUPERHERO Maybe we need some Spidey sense to sort this out. Actor Josh Hutcherson won't confirm or deny he's been chosen as the next Spider-Man.

Internet sites including Twitter are buzzing with reports the 17-year-old will replace Toby Maguire, who won't be back for the fourth Spider-Man movie. Hutcherson has starred in films including Journey to the Center of the Earth and Bridge to Terabithia.

Douglas brings the goods as a Solitary Man

Legendary actor fits role like a glove Supporting cast of Sarandon, DeVito help give film sophistication

STEVE GOW
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Solitary Man is such a perfect vehicle for Michael Douglas that it's almost difficult to imagine anyone else playing the slick role.

After all, Douglas has cut his teeth portraying capitalist megalomaniacs (Wall Street) who often claw their way back into some form of redemption (Wonder Boys). This film provides both those characteristics plus a side order of youthful sexual obsession — another one of Douglas' specialties (Fatal Attraction, Basic Instinct).

Directed by writing partners David Levien and Brian Koppelman (Ocean's Thirteen), Solitary Man explores the downfall of Ben Kalmen, a New York-based automotive sales kingpin whose own egoism led to the implosion of his business, his family and his health.

▶Michael Douglas

Looking for a second chance, he escorts a connected wealthy lover's daughter (Imogen Poots) to his old college to meet the Dean but instead falls into the trappings of young lust, old memories and becomes romantic mentor to a nerdy student (played by Zombieland's Jesse Eisenberg).

"You can't cheat death no matter how many 19-year olds you talk into your bed," his ex-wife (Susan Sarandon) tells him but Kalmen is determined to seek youth — even if he's too far gone.

Solitary Man isn't the sort of summer release that will fill the multiplexes and Koppelman's script, while clever enough, does feature moments of drag. But as a character study carried by the well-cast Douglas and his stellar supports (including a memorable appearance by long-time Douglas pal, Danny DeVito), this comic-drama is a more sophisticated remedy from the summer barrage of box-office blockbusters.

CARTOON TO FILM A TOUGH GO

InFocus

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Like Scooby Doo and Inspector Gadget before it, this weekend's The Last Airbender first saw the light of day as an animated television show. Director M. Night Shyamalan first came across Avatar: The Last Airbender, when his daughter said she wanted to be one of the characters, Katara, for Halloween.

After that watching the show became "a family event in my house," says the director. "When I saw the cartoon I thought it was so well thought out in term of mythology. It had Buddhism, martial arts and CGI (and it was) character based. I knew it would make a great feature film … I knew we could do something that wasn't going to be just a great treat for the eyes, but also for the mind and the soul."

Shyamalan is shooting high, hoping to turn The Last Airbender (they had to drop the Avatar part of the TV show's title) into a trilogy. "I have always wanted to develop a long mythology based franchise like The Lord of the Rings," he says.

One television-cartoon-to-big-screen adaptation that lasted more than one installment was The Flintstones. The animated modern stone-age family (with friends Barney and Betty) ruled Saturday morning television for six years, before making the leap to the big screen in 1966 in The Man Called Flintstone, a musical James Bond parody.

After that the show came back to TV in various incarnations — one even featuring the Marvel Comics superhero The Thing — but a return to the big screen took almost thirty years. In The Flintstones, the 1994 live action version, John Goodman Yabba-Dabba-Dooed his way through the film as Fred. Unable to leave well enough alone a prequel, The Flintstones in Viva Rock Vegas, followed in 2000. Soon though, Fred and Wilma will be back where they belong, in an animated film, set to be released in 2011.

Big Brother 12 plants secret house 'mole'

- Producers will include saboteur amongst the cast
- housemates will need to discover who is the plant

Who is the Big Brother saboteur?

That's the question that will no doubt consume contestants on the 12th edition of CBS' voyeuristic reality TV series that confines a group of strangers — or houseguests, as they're known on Big Brother — inside a makeshift two-story domicile for the summer, all while being constantly monitored by over 50 video cameras and 95 microphones.

This season, executive producer Allison Grodner and her team have planted a mole among the houseguests to do viewers' bidding and disrupt the players' lives during Big Brother 12, which debuts July 8 at 8 p.m.

FILE PHOTO

▶ Surprisingly, not the mole

Grodner said the saboteur, who will be revealed to viewers on the July 15 episode, isn't eligible to win the $500,000 grand prize.

"For the first time ever, we have someone in the house who, in a way, is playing their own game," said Grodner, who stressed that the operative is not an actor but a real person who was picked alongside everyone else.

"They're playing for a cash prize, if they make it a certain amount of time in the house. If they don't last, they're out, and their cover is blown."

Such surprises are a staple of the "expect the unexpected" franchise.

This time, however, the cast will know beforehand.

Robyn set to drop trilogy of albums

Swedish pop star has been touring extensively since last release five years ago Body Talk brings a blend of bubblegum pop and club music

CAM LINDSAY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Robyn plans to release three albums by the end of 2010.

In the music biz, five years is an awful long time to wait for a new record. But unlike most artists that tend to lose fans over such an extended period, Swedish pop star Robyn has amassed a fan base that just kept on growing after releasing her career-rejuvenating fourth album back in 2005.

So, it's good news for her fan base then that she will have three albums out by the end of 2010. But the way Robyn describes it, she made the choice as much for herself as she did for us.

"I was trying to find a new way to record and tour at the same time," she explains. "I was really excited to tour the last album as long as I did, but at the same time it's been four and a half years since the last album and two of those years I was touring. For me it was nice to not have to conform to the calendar of the music industry and do it in a way that makes sense to me."

"The thought of waiting five years again to make a new album is tiring to me."
ROBYN

Body Talk, Robyn says, is "a combination of words taken from a club my friend runs in London. I liked what it made me think about. The album is inspired by club culture, dance music, technology and communication, so I guess it means all of that in some kind of way."

The first of the trilogy, Body Talk Pt. 1 continues her self-titled album's perfect amalgam of bubblegum pop and club music. From the chillaxed thump of the Diplo-produced Dancehall Queen to the undulating crescendo of Dancing On My Own, Robyn's emotionally driven steez hits you like the warm glow of slow-mo strobe lighting.

Although they aren't quite done yet, Parts 2 and 3 (which is subtitled Speak Your Body) will have their own uniqueness but won't stray far from the first Body Talk.

Transitions

Beginning her career at 16, Robyn has seen herself go from a major label puppet to having an identity crisis to becoming one of the most meticulous independent forces in music.

A HALFTIME MUSIC REPORT

It's officially halftime in 2010 so let's look at some of the music plays from the first six months of the year.

Grunge is Back: New albums from Alice in Chains, Stone Temple Pilots, Bush, Hole plus a reunited Soundgarden and the immortal Pearl Jam have people wondering if someone hasn't set the controls of the DeLorean for June 1994.

The Continuing Collapse of CD Sales: Grunge's resurrection has done little for the calamitous death spiral in CD sales that began in 2001. Ten years ago, $1.44 billion worth of recorded music was sold in the US; last year, it was $769 million. In Canada, sales are running up to 13 per cent behind where they were last year—and that was before the upward spike that came after Michael Jackson died. Things are so dire that it's possible to sneak onto the Billboard Top 200 album chart by selling around 2,500 CDs. If it wasn't for Lady Gaga, Justin Bieber, Drake and those damn Glee kids, things would be a whole lot worse.

The Crisis in the Concert Industry: With revenues from CDs drying up like a Death Valley creek bed in July, artists have to tour more often and charge more for tickets. Add in high service charges and the perception that scalpers always get the best seats no matter how hard you try, people are staying away. The Eagles, the Dixie Chicks, Christina Aguilera and Limp Bizkit have all had to cancel shows because of poor sales. And let's not even talk about the serious problems Sarah McLachlan's Lilith Fair is having. That's not to say that all tours are doing poorly. Just try and get a ticket for any of Rogers Waters' restaging of Pink Floyd's The Wall.

The music industry continues to transition into … something.

Was Chris Brown really crying at the BET Awards?

Brown not sincere?

MUSIC
Chris Brown's tearful tribute to Michael Jackson at the BET Awards last week caused a lot of criticism, and now it looks like it could have all been an act.

Sources tell Us Weekly that Brown was given tear-inducing eye-drops just before taking the stage. "He rubbed it in and he started crying," a source says.

Brown's rep. vehemently denies the accusation.

Former Party of Five star says his family is hurting his rep every time they talk to the press

Jeremy London asked a court this week to issue an injunction preventing his mother and brother from giving interviews that the actor claims are hurting his reputation and career.

The lawsuit claimed the interviews may hamper a police investigation in London's alleged kidnapping in Palm Springs, Calif., earlier this month. It named the former Party of Five actor's mother, his twin brother and his brother's fiancée.

The complaint said the trio have ignored requests to stop giving interviews about him after he was reportedly abducted June 10. London's brother and mother conducted an interview with E! Entertainment Television saying that he was sober now and they think he might relapse because of the incident.

Sources in Spears' camp aren't too concerned, though, and describe the former bodyguard as "an opportunist seeking his 15 minutes of fame."

Participants in last year's Pride Parade on Yonge Street. This year's parade takes place Sunday at 2 p.m.

An expansion to Queen's Park, an official Trans March, an iPhone app and programs geared to the over-40 crowd are among the key additions to this year's Pride Week.

Queen's Park will feature food and market vendors, a main stage with room for 35,000 spectators and a licensed patio area that can hold up to 10,000.

The festival already covers five smaller parks between Yonge and Church Sts., but organizers needed more space for the growing crowds, and in anticipation of Toronto hosting World Pride in 2014.

To make easier to keep on top of all the action, Pride has launched its own iPhone application, listing all events with detailed information and maps.

The Pride app is free and available through Apple's store.

Star power hits the Pride stage

Still buzzing from the thrill of discovering hordes of new fans during the Music Matters Canadian music expo in Hong Kong a few weeks back, Jully Black can't wait to strut her stuff for a hometown crowd at Toronto's 30th annual Pride festival.

"The gay community relates to the power of the story in my songs, to the message of togetherness. And I guess they understand what it's like to be part of a significant minority in this wonderful city," says the singer, who grew up in Toronto's Jane-Finch neighbourhood.

"I had lots of gay friends, going back to Grade 9, but gay pride wasn't on our horizon back then. It was very taboo."

A resilient and infectiously optimistic artist, Black has fought hard to get her unique brand of homegrown R&B onto the charts. During the Hong Kong event, Black was invited to perform in Australia, India and Britain.

"I was blown away," she says.

Those are the same words used by Ivana Santilli to describe her feelings about being invited to perform at this year's Pride festival.

"This is my first time, and I'm blown away," says the Toronto-born-and-raised, New York-based singer/songwriter.

Both singers perform at the Wellesley Stage on Saturday night.

Ingredients :

- 1/2 cup plus 1 tbsp mayonnaise
- 1/2 tsp grated orange zest
- 3 tbsp fresh orange juice
- 1 tsp kosher salt
- 1 tsp minced ginger
- 1 lb skinless, boneless salmon filets, 1-inch diceD
- 2 tbsp chopped parsley
- 1 tbsp chopped chives
- 1 tsp lime juice
- 1/3 cup panko
- 1/4 tsp black pepper
- olive oil, for frying

Preparation:

1 In a small bowl, combine ½ cup mayonnaise, orange zest and juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ginger and garlic; stir well and set aside.

2 In a food processor, combine salmon, parsley and chives and lime juice; pulse until coarsely chopped. Transfer salmon mixture to a bowl, add panko, remaining tablespoon mayonnaise, ¾ teaspoon ginger, ¾ tsp salt and black pepper; stir until thoroughly mixed. Divide mixture into 8 (1/4-cup) portions and form into patties about 3/4-in thick.

3 In a large skillet set over medium-high heat, add 3 tablespoons oil. When hot, add salmon cakes, working in batches, and cook until golden brown on bottom. Flip over and continue to cook until both sides are golden brown and crispy, about 2 to 3 minutes per side. Remove from pan and drain on paper towels. Serve with orange aioli on the side. ## Superfood: Artichoke

Known for aiding indigestion, artichokes are also a great way to help lower cholesterol levels.

They are also a great source of antioxidants as well as being a source of Vitamin C, K, fiber, potassium and magnesium.

The fact that you have to peel the artichoke leaves in order to get to the heart means you will eat it more slowly, facilitating digestion.

Canadian clubs active on market

When the NHL's free agent market opened for business, the Canadian general managers came charging in with their wallets out.

Mike Gillis lured coveted defenceman Dan Hamhuis to Vancouver, Bryan Murray convinced veteran blue-liner Sergei Gonchar to join Ottawa, and Darryl Sutter dropped some jaws by bringing forwards Olli Jokinen and Alex Tanguay back to Calgary.

Not to be outdone, the other three Canadian GMs also made moves on a busy day that featured more restraint than normal from managers around the league.

The richest contract was the $27 million US Vancouver committed to Hamhuis over six years

Among the other moves made by Canadian teams: Montreal signed goaltender Alex Auld to a $1-million, one-year deal; Toronto landed gritty winger Colby Armstrong for $9 million over three years; Edmonton inked defenceman Kurtis Foster to a $3.6-million, two-year deal; and Vancouver shelled out $7.5 million to get forward Manny Malhotra for three years.

Leafs GM Brian Burke didn't expect to make any moves when the day started, but was pleased to land Armstrong.

Blue Jays swept out of town by the Tribe

Jays drop fifth in a row and ninth in past 11 games Starter Shaun Marcum tagged with the loss

| BLUE JAYS | INDIANS |

Even when the Cleveland Indians lost their season-worst seventh in a row last week, manager Manny Acta kept believing in his team.

Acta's faith in his players seems to be have paid off. Behind Justin Masterson's pitching and Matt LaPorta's slugging, the Indians beat the Toronto Blue Jays 6-1 Thursday for their season-high fifth straight win.

The Indians skidded on the road before closing the trip with a win in Cincinnati Sunday. Cleveland returned home Monday and sent the Blue Jays out of town with a four-game sweep.

The Indians combined solid starting pitching, good work from the bullpen and timely hitting against the Blue Jays.

"It was an outstanding series by the kids," Acta said.

The mood down the hall in the Blue Jays' clubhouse was decidedly different. Toronto has lost five in a row, matching its worst slump this year, and has dropped nine of 11.

Asked to describe his team's play in the series, Toronto manager Cito Gaston gave a blunt assessment.

"Terrible, awful, we played terrible," he said.

Shawn Marcum (7-4) didn't allow a hit in the first three innings, but fell apart in a six-run fourth. The inning started with walks to Shin-Soo Choo and Carlos Santana, and a pair of wild pitches moved the runners into scoring position. LaPorta's homer cashed them in.

Field of Play

Finally, there is a break in the action at the World Cup. After 19 consecutive days of high-stakes soccer, the clock has ceased to tick and the eight teams that remain reload for the quarter-finals.

It seems so strange. Maybe that's why they call it "The Beautiful Game," because of its relentless and inevitable continuation in spite of that which conspires to obstruct it. The World Cup hates to be interrupted.

There are no commercial timeouts. They must wait until the end of the half or the conclusion of the game.

Even injuries can't make time stand still.

They would rather add minutes at the World Cup than pause to clear the debris of bumps, bruises and broken bones.

Here's another thing — the World Cup is unkind to those who claim the passing years as an ally, the so-called experienced players.

Witness the stars of the current edition — Mesut Ozil, Thomas Muller, Lionel Messi, David Villa and Asamoah Gyan to name but a few.

The youngest is 20 years of age, while the oldest, Villa, is still only 28.

"Time is what sets the World Cup apart and gives the tournament such aura. This is a rare beast that occurs only once every four years and perhaps a single time in a player's lifetime."

At the World Cup youth will be served.

Finally, there is no time to stop and argue about mistakes made by referees.

The underlying message is to play on in spite of any adversity.

That's the way it has to be because the game, not the referee, dictates the outcome.

It's true that beautiful goals like the one scored by Frank Lampard of England have to stand and if that means video technology, then so be it.

But someone has to find a way for that to become a reality without stopping the clock.

The example is the National Hockey League.

In the late 1990s, video reviews and the laughable mock drama of officials on telephones while rewinding tape machines almost ruined the sport.

The World Cup can't let that happen.

Time is what sets the World Cup apart and gives the tournament such aura.

This is a rare beast that occurs only once every four years and perhaps a single time in a player's lifetime.

It's also special because at the World Cup time is fleeting and it stops for nothing.

Serena advances to final

Serena Williams defeated unseeded Petra Kvitova in straight sets Thursday to reach her third straight Wimbledon final. The top-ranked Williams overcame a stiff challenge in the first set from the 62nd-ranked Czech player, then pulled away for a 7-6 (5), 6-2 victory. Williams is now one win away from her fourth Wimbledon title.

RIDERS WILL WIN GREY CUP

CFL Extra Points

DAN TOTH

Predictions for the 2010 CFL season.

In a league where almost anything can happen (and usually does) you'd be crazy to predict the outcome of both CFL divisions and the Grey Cup game before the season kicks off, but let's throw caution and common sense to the wind with our fearless prognostications for the 2010 CFL season.

Predicted order of finish:

WEST

1. Saskatchewan Roughriders — With an impressive nucleus from last season still intact, the Riders appear ready to repeat as West Division champs, but only if starting QB Darian Durant stays healthy.

2. Calgary Stampeders — The Stamps fell to Saskatchewan in the West final in 2009 and history should repeat itself this year. Question is, how much will the Stamps miss departed receiver Jeremaine Copeland and placekicker Sandro DeAngelis?

3. Edmonton Eskimos — With two-time Grey Cup champ Ricky Ray at the controls again this season and gamebreakers Fred Stamps and Kelly Campbell in tow, the Edmonton Eskimos should post a winning record.

4. B.C. Lions — If QB Casey Printers returns to his MVP form of 2004 the Lions could avoid last place in the West ... but don't bet on it.

The East could see a shift of power this season to Hamilton, which is putting the finishing touches on a long-term rebuilding project, from Montreal.

EAST

The Riders' impressive core from last season returns, which could spell good things for the club

Quarterback remains a question mark for the Argos

1. Hamilton Tiger-Cats — The Ticats offence has a star receiver in Arland Bruce, a winning one-two punch at quarterback and the CFL's best placekicker in DeAngelis.

2. Montreal Alouettes — The decline of the aging Als has been a common prediction the last few years and the 2009 Grey Cup champs may finally start their slide.

3. Winnipeg Blue Bombers — The Bombers are better with quarterback Buck Pierce and head coach Paul LaPolice and they simply can't be as bad as the rebuilding Argos.

4. Toronto Argos — The addition of sensational receiver Jeremaine Copeland, who had 81 catches, 1,235 yards and 12 TDs for Calgary last season, will help the Argos cause.

That said, quarterback remains a huge question mark as starter Cleo Lemon will be attempting his first-ever regular-season CFL pass Friday.

GREY CUP

Saskatchewan over Hamilton.

Sports in brief

Utley could be out for 8 weeks

MLB. Phillies star second baseman Chase Utley will be out at least eight weeks after having surgery on his injured right thumb, a major setback for the two-time defending NL champions.

Ladd traded to Thrashers

NHL. The Blackhawks traded forward Andrew Ladd to the Atlanta Thrashers Thursday, a day after dealing forward Kris Versteeg to Toronto. For Ladd, who was a restricted free agent, the Blackhawks acquired defenceman Ivan Vishnevskiy and a second-round pick in 2011.

Attacking expected

Brazil coach predicts 'great football game' against Dutch

Not much hype is required when the five-time champion faces the country that created "total football" in the World Cup quarter-finals.

Still, Brazil coach Dunga made a point of emphasizing just how spectacular Friday's match against the Netherlands (CBC, 10 a.m. ET) might be.

Dunga, who captained the Brazil side that beat the Netherlands in 1994 and 1998, said Thursday that he would pay to watch the game if he didn't have a free pass for the sideline.

"Both sides play an attacking game, both feature very technical players ... and both want to score." DUNGA

"Both sides play an attacking game, both feature very technical players, both know how to dribble and take risks, and both want to score," the former midfielder said. "So you can always expect a great football game.

"We all know that in the knockout stage all the games are open. You can't play defensively because all the players on the pitch are experts."

The winner will face either Uruguay or Ghana in the semifinals.

A two-time runner-up but never World Cup champion, the Netherlands enters on a team-record 23-match unbeaten streak. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Late goal lets TFC avoid first home loss

Draw with Houston means Toronto is unbeaten in last seven MLS contests Gargan scores equalizer

Dan Gargan headed home a corner kick from Fuad Ibrahim in the 85th minute to give Toronto FC a 1-1 tie with the Houston Dynamo in Major League Soccer on Thursday.

The draw before a crowd of 21,374 at BMO Field kept Toronto FC undefeated at home this season and without a loss in its past seven MLS matches.

Brian Ching's goal in the 73rd minute, also a header after a corner from Danny Cruz gave a Houston 1-0 lead and followed two red cards about 11 minutes earlier that left each side with 10 players.

10 Toronto has not lost since May 1 when they dropped an away game 2-1 to Real Salt Lake and is undefeated in 10 games in all competitions.

A minute after Ching's goal, TFC goalkeeper Stefan Frei was called upon to make a save, tipping a shot from Lovel Palmer over the bar.

Toronto's goal came just after Vancouver native Pat Onstad made a save on TFC captain Dwayne De Rosario, a former Houston player.

Each team played a man short after the 62nd minute with red cards handed Toronto's Julian de Guzman and Houston's Joseph Ngwenya. It came after a skirmish deep in the Toronto end after Ngwenya continued on despite being called for a foul.

After the red cards, Toronto pressed for a goal but were thwarted.

Toronto picked up another red card just before the end of the game when Amadou Sanyang was sent off for picking up his second yellow card of the match.

Meeting with Heat 'real good,' says Bosh

Chris Bosh met with the Miami Heat in Chicago Thursday, each side gauging the chance of him joining Dwyane Wade in South Florida for the next several seasons.

"It was good. It was good, real good," Bosh said Thursday evening outside his agent's office in downtown Chicago.

Earlier, he had posted on Twitter, "Pat Riley is very passionate about winning."

The Heat has not made any public comment after any free-agent sessions, though there's clearly high mutual interest. Bosh told The Associated Press earlier this week that Miami is one of his top choices during the free-agent period.

Bosh met with the Houston Rockets after the clock struck midnight Thursday, formally opening the NBA free-agent window. He talked to the Rockets in Dallas, his hometown, then flew to Chicago for the mid-afternoon session with the Heat contingent led by team president Pat Riley. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You like to take the lead but that does not mean partners and colleagues will follow you blindly. If you want backing for what you are doing there will have to be something in it for them.

♉ Taurus April 23-May 21 If you sit back and wait for good things to come your way you may be disappointed, but if you go out and make things happen you will be rewarded abundantly.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You cannot please all of the people all of the time and you should not even try. Whatever else you do today the most important thing is that you feel good about yourself.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Others may be happy to talk around a problem but you don't have the patience: you will call it as you see it today and if certain people don't like it that's just too bad.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 For some strange reason you are rather fearful at the moment and may fail to speak up in case you get it wrong. The sooner you snap out of it the better.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You may have to change your plans at the last moment today and you won't be too happy about it, but the good news is the change will work in your favor.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You may not feel confident on the inside but if you can put on an act and look confident on the outside you'll get so much accomplished today.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You may come to a conclusion on the basis of very little in the way of factual information or evidence but your Scorpio sensitivity is such that you will most likely be spot on in your evaluation.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you make some sort of blunder today you are advised to pretend it did not happen and carry on as normal.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 It may not be natural for you to discuss intimate matters with other people, not even those you are close to emotionally, but something needs to be brought into the open today.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 It may not be possible to know for certain what is the best course of action but that does not mean you should take no action at all.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Keep your emotions in check and try not to take anything too seriously today. The Sun in Cancer makes you incredibly dynamic but you need to keep a sense of perspective too. Try laughing at the world, and yourself, occasionally.
